Matthew Kramer, Nigel Simmonds, Hillel Steiner : A Debate over Rights: Philosophical Enquiries before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised A Debate over Rights: Philosophical Enquiries:

This collection of essays forms a lively debate over the fundamental characteristics of legal and moral rights. The essays examine whether rights fundamentally protect individuals' interests or whether they instead fundamentally enable individuals to make choices.

"...all three of the essays are quite well written, and the authors expound their positions with admirable vigor and clarity. This work will certainly be of significant interest to anyone concerned with the Hohfeldian jural framework, the 'Interest' and 'Will' theories of rights, or the rival analytic and evaluative approaches to the philosophical foundations of rights theory. It is, then, a more than welcome addition to our ongoing 'debate over rights'."--The Law and Politics Book About the Author Matthew Kramer is a University Lecturer in Jurisprudence, Cambridge University, and Fellow and Director of Studies in Law, Churchill College, Cambridge. Nigel Simmonds is a Reader in Jurisprudence, Cambridge University, and Fellow and Director of Studies in Law, Corpus Christi College, Cambridge. Hillel Steiner is Professor of Political Philosophy, University of Manchester.
