The reading was dense and demanded a lot of concentration. The cheapest I found this was through . There were 40 students in that class; three of us walked away with A's.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. This book arrived in pristine condition, no rips, no torn pages, binding barely looks creased. Was completely wowed!0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy Jessigreat book, bought it for class.

Mallor, Barnes, Bowers and Langvardts: Business Law: The Ethical, Global, and E-Commerce Environment, 14e is appropriate for the two-term business law course. The cases in the 14th edition are excerpted and edited by the authors. The syntax is not altered, therefore retaining the language of the courts. As in recent previous editions, the 14th edition includes a mix of actual AND hypothetical cases.

About the Author Jane P. Mallor has taught business law at Indiana University since 1976. During that time she has received many teaching awards, including the Student Alumni Council Senior Faculty Award, the Faculty Colloquium for Excellence in Teaching, and the Amoco Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching. A. James Barnes is Dean and Professor of Public and Environmental Affairs at Indiana University. He previously won a distinguished teaching award from Indiana University's School of Business. Thomas Bowers is a faculty member of Indiana University's School of Business. He has received 10 outstanding teaching awards, and is the only two-time recipient of the Indiana University Student Choice Award for outstanding teaching. Arlen W. Langvardt, currently Associate Professor of Business Law at Indiana University, received several teaching awards and in 1989 received the Holmes/Cardozo Award from the Academy of Legal Studies in Business.
