Lourdes M. Rosado : Changing Lives: Lawyers Fighting for Children before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Changing Lives: Lawyers Fighting for Children:

Changing Lives: Lawyers Fighting for Children demonstrates the critical role that attorneys play in changing the life courses of our most at-risk children. Without legal representation, the children profiled in this book likely would have gone down a path that was detrimental to their safety, their well-being, and ultimately their ability to grow into happy and successful adults.

About the Author Lourdes M. Rosado, of Philadelphia, PA., is the Associate Director at the Juvenile Law Center which she joined in 1998 after completing the E. Barrett Prettyman Fellowship in Juvenile Justice at Georgetown University Law Center. As a Prettyman Fellow, Ms. Rosado represented juveniles in delinquency proceedings in the District of Columbia Superior Court, and taught trial advocacy and criminal procedure to third-year law students.
