

Connect Plus for Law Ethics for the Health Professions

Karen Judson, Carlene Harrison

*DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub

DOWNLOAD

+

READ ONLINE

#2433831 in Books 2012-01-23 Platforms: Windows XP, Windows Vista, Windows 7 Original language: English PDF # 1 8.50 x .0 x 5.50 | Binding: Unbound | File size: 37.Mb

Karen Judson, Carlene Harrison : Connect Plus for Law Ethics for the Health Professions before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Connect Plus for Law Ethics for the Health Professions:

McGraw-Hill Connect is a digital teaching and learning environment that saves students and instructors time while improving performance over a variety of critical outcomes. Connect is the only integrated learning system that empowers students by continuously adapting to deliver precisely what they need, when they need it, and how they need it, so that your class time is more engaging and effective.

About the Author
Karen Judson, BS
Karen Judson taught biology laboratories at Black Hills University in Spearfish, South Dakota; high school sciences in Idaho; and grades one and three in Washington state. She is also a former laboratory and X-ray technician and completed two years of nurses training while completing a degree in biology. Judson has worked as a science writer since 1983. She has written relationship, family, and psychology articles for a variety of magazines, including a series of high school classroom magazines, making a total of 500 articles published. Judson writes science and relationship books for teenagers (Enslow and Marshall Cavendish publishers). Her book for teens, Sports Money: Its a Sell Out, made the New York City Public Library's list of best books for teens in 1995. Her book for teens, Genetic Engineering, was chosen by the National Science Teachers Association as one of the best science books for children in 2001 and was featured on the NSTA Web site.
Carlene Harrison, EdD, CMA (AAMA)
Carlene Harrison is Dean of the School of Allied Health at Hodges University and is also Program Director for the Master of Health Services Administration and Graduate Certificate in Health Informatics. She has been a member of the faculty at Hodges University since 1992, but came on board full time in 2000, serving first as Chair of the Medical Assisting Program. As Dean of the School of Allied Health, she has overall responsibility for the following degree programs: Health Services Administration, Biomedical Sciences, Medical Assisting, Health Information Management, and Physical Therapist Assistant. Her doctorate is from Argosy University. Her dissertation research looked at improvement in critical thinking in adult learners. Before becoming a full-time educator, Dr. Harrison worked for over 20 years in the healthcare field as an administrator. Employed mostly in the outpatient setting, she has worked in the for-profit, not-for-profit, and public health sectors.